Digests of Current NYC Theatre Reviews

Auntie Mame- Broadhurst 10/31. 7 unanimous pro reviews for Rosalind Russell in Lawrence and Lee adaption of Patrick Dennis novel presented by Fryer & Carr. Though several critics were less than enthusiastic about the script itself they agreed that star's presence covered any flaws. Atkinson, Times, who had recommended Russell for president in 1956 is glad she is shown on Broadway in play in which she is triumphantly entertaining. Kerr, Herald Tribune, agreed with several other reviewers that script is more like a non-musical revue, but joined in plaudits for star, who he termed a hurricane. McClain, Journal American, reported that the first night audience spent a rigorous evening rocking with laughter. Watts, Post, listed the play as fun and Russell as terrific.

Major Barbara-Martin Beck- 10/30. 5 pros and 2 cons from Times and Herald Tribune reviewers filed on Producers Theatre production staged and starring Charles Laughton. Cast which also includes Cornelia Otis Skinner, Glynis Johns, Burgess Meredith and Eli Wallach was termed superb by the majority. Theatre at its theatrical best with a perfect acting company in a superbly wrought production of the classic Shaw comedy, summed up Chapman, News. Donnelley, World-Telegram Sun, thought play slow in starting, but he thoroughly enjoyed the second half. Dissenters Atkinson, Times, and Kerr, Herald Tribune, blamed director Laughton for failure of evening. Former thought only Wallach and Richard Lupino assimilated Shaw manner, while latter feared pace of production lost the fun of Shaw.

The Sleeping Prince-Coronet -11/1. 1 pro from Chapman, News, and 6 cons listed for Terence Rattigan fairy tale presented by Producers Theatre. Charmingly played okayed News man. But majority thought Rattigan script dull and playing by cast headed by Michael Redgrave and Barbara Bel Geddes equally dull.

The Adelphi Theatre on West 54th St, east of Seventh Ave, which has been used by Dumont TV for the past several years, may return to the legit fold soon. The TV company is considering several offers from legit producers interested in sub-leasing the house.

Plays

Theatre Ad Notes

20% of Inherit the Wind audiences are from people who bought their tickets by mail, sums up producer Herman Shumlin in display ad.... Cast of Circle in Square's Iceman Cometh saluted cast of Long Day's Journey Into Night in paid ad.

OFF
BROADWAY

The Shakespearewrights may have to close their production of Hamlet at St. Ignatius Church, West 87th St because it is operating without a theatre license. NYC License Commissioner O'Connell first halted the opening of the group's new home for this same reason, but then allowed them to open a week later with a public assembly permit. Now he has ruled that the group cannot operate without a theatre license.

The Sea Gull is scheduled to close Nov 11... Sean O'Casey's Purple Dust to be presented by Paul Shyre at Cherry Lane Dec 27... Lysistrata due Dec 12 at Lenox Hill Playhouse is first in the New Director's Invitational Series part of Equity Library Theatre program... The Shadow Years by Kenneth Silva will be presented at Open Stage Dec 4 by Alan Krassner and J. David Bowen... Reading version of John Dos Passos USA to be presented at Theatre de Lys Dec 18 matinee by ANTA.

Shoestring '57 revue presented by Ben Bagley at Barbizon Plaza drew 5 mild pro votes and one mild con from McClain, Journal American. Latter thought everybody involved could use better material. But majority enjoyed performers and most of the material. Dorothy Greener and Dody Goodman drew top notices for their diverse fun. Funke, Times, billed it as ingratiating Off-Broadway entertainment. Kerr, Herald Tribune, listed it as a wicked and winning show in its own small, unpretentious, improvisational way. McHarry, News, warned that show is certain to be raided by TV and night club managers.

THEATRE
COMMENTS

"The Best Plays of 1955-56" edited by Louis Kronenberger (Dodd, Mead) okayed by Rodo, Variety, as the standard handy reference volume of the stage.

DRAMA
REPORT

Diverse viewpoints of Actors Equity and NY producers on the problem of "Equity and the Alien Actor" were discussed at Drama Desk meeting. Josh Logan and Robert Whitehead gave the producers side, while Kent Smith and Margot Stevenson of Equity Alien Committee presented the union views.

Whitehead argued that the Equity point of view supercedes the director and author putting the union in the casting business. This he viewed as a dangerous situation in the theatre.

Smith pointed out that Equity is only fulfilling its function as a labor union under the McCarran Act. The crux of the situation is the fact that at present only 447 jobs are available on the NY Stage, while the English theatre provides 6000 jobs weekly for British Equity members. The US Actors Equity only insists that the producer look at all available US talent before they import an actor for a role. Stevenson noted that US actors can only get employment in British plays when a producer threatens to close a show rather than cast poorly.

GO TO SCHOOL... Broadway managers--stage managers, house managers, company managers--were panned by Morrison, Variety, for kidding the public on curtain times. At several recent openings the house was abruptly darkened leaving latecomers groping to their seats. Even non-pro playgoers know that the actual ring-up time of an announced 8 30 PM curtain is apt to be between 8 40 and 8 55. When the general public learns that official announcements are meaningless how can it be expected to arrive on time, trade paper wonders. A periodic check-up and schooling was suggested as a possible remedy.

COLUMN TIPS... Body Beautiful is next musical to be presented by Richard Kollmar, reports Winchell... Helen Blount, understudy to Susan Johnson, Most Happy Fella, has played the role 60 times at last count, notes Kilgallen... Rodgers & Hammerstein want Milton Berle for film role of Luther Billis in South Pacific, hears Walker.

DRAMA MAIL BOX... "The Little Plays about Little People" school of playwriting condemned by Times reader who as one of these "little people" is not very complimented on finding how dull our lives is when presented onstage... Saint Joan poetry and brilliance was destroyed in the most villainous and ruthless cutting actor Ian Keith has ever known, he noted in Variety letter... Serious theatre fan is missing a great amount of good theatre if he follows the advice of any one critic too regularly, warns a C. D. subscriber.

CRITICAL THOUGHTS... NY theatres were urged to open the side exit doors at intermissions to get the audience out faster by McClain, Journal American... The British Isles have certainly been supplying us with our theatrical season so far, surmises Watts, Post.

SECOND GUESSES... Current 4th St production of Sea Gull is certainly a better performance than recent Phoenix version of Chekhov play, states Watts, Post. Mild notices due to fact that presentation doesn't go along with the prevailing theory that Chekhov wrote farces, guesses Post critic... Fanny has run because of a combination of elements, notes McClain, Journal American. First a big lavish musical gets a large play from the outlanders, and second producer David Merrick merchandized his show coast to coast. Finally Josh Logan kept working on show after NY opening.

INTERVIEW HI-LITES... Roddy McDowall who left the hit No Time for Sergeants for the lead role in the limited run Diary of A Scoundrel admitted to Peper, World-Telegram & Sun that he has wanted to portray the title role of the Russian comedy for years and was perfectly willing to leave the secure long-run hit to play it... Eric Portman, star of Separate Tables told Field, Mirror, that he knows many actors who couldn't make a living at anything else. Acting, he stated, has nothing to do with brains.

" PROS & CONS BY T.M.K. "

The Sleeping Prince is a modern fairy tale that never works except for the delightful madness of Cathleen Nesbitt as the Grand Duchess. Neither the rest of the cast and/or the audience can become enchanted in the dull, obvious script or the lackluster acting.

* * *

Macbeth production of Old Vic is a handsome, moving, bloody version of the Bard's tragedy. Once again the English troupe shows what true unity of acting really means. The costumes and dramatic lighting effects do much to make the drama exciting.

* * *

Curtain calls of the Old Vic are interesting to watch. Each call is carefully rehearsed and the curtain is in constant motion. The British stage managers have rehearsed the cast carefully and every ounce of applause is used to get the maximum number of calls.

In contrast the average Broadway stage manager is slow in getting the curtain calls started and is even slower in getting his actors to move on and off-stage for the different calls. Clever, cute and often cliche stagings which take time to set up often cut into the time available for the audience's applause.

With a certain portion of the US audience always rushing for that last commuter train, it might be wiser to follow the British example of crisp, fast curtain calls.

* * *

While the new theatres for NYC are still in the future the good news this season is that several of the houses grabbed by TV earlier are reverting back to legit. Thus with the season booming there are several more houses available this year. This fact should encourage the would-be builders of new legit houses to move from the talking stage to the blueprint stage.

* * *

The Shakespearewrights are leading a shaky existence at their new west side church home. Their production of Hamlet was postponed a week because of failure to get a theatre license. Then the group re-opened to critical praise with a "public assembly" permit. Now once again the NYC License Commissioner threatens to close the group for operating without a theatre license. Theatre fans should rally to the defense of this group if they want Off-Broadway theatre to continue. 75% of the groups now operate with "public assembly" permits, mostly because the houses they are in could never pass the requirements for a theatre license. If the License Commission can close one house, it can close them all. Either the houses must be allowed to operate under the "public assembly" permits or new building codes especially for the Off Broadway theatre situation must be written at once.

* * *

ANTA 40 City plan which seemed a wild dream several years ago is moving forward to the point where it seems a reality. Willard Swire, former Actors Equity executive, who is the guiding force of the movement, will soon have the joy of seeing his idea bring theatre to 40 top cities and give employment to hundreds of actors.

London Theatre

Plays

The Mousetrap at the Ambassador starts its 5th year Nov 25. Agatha Christie thriller is the third longest running straight play in the history of the British stage... Snake in the Grass a new farce will be presented by City Stage Productions as first play by unknown to be presented by group in West End and on tour... Hearts and Faces replaced The Children's Hour at Arts.

Players

Robin Howard, an American, has replaced Geraldine Page in The Rainmaker at St. Martins... C. Denier Warren joined Fanny.

Arts Council Report

British audiences are willing to pay about 2/3 of the cost of their entertainment, Arts Council report concludes. 1 million pounds a year have been contributed by the Arts Council and local authorities. The report believes that if 2 1/2 million were given yearly even larger audiences for good drama and music could be developed. This is the 11th annual report of the Arts Council devoted to increase the accessibility of the arts to the public.

Digests of London Reviews

The Good Woman of Setzuan at Royal Court was lauded by Tynan, Observer, as a Brecht production not to be missed by any one interested in hearing the fundamental problems of human existence discussed in the theatre. These problems are still cruelly relevant to more than half of the inhabited world, critic reminds. He felt that Peggy Ashcroft in the title role was only half-way fine. On con side, Darlington, Telegraph, panned play as one of the dullest evenings spent in the theatre. The only real delight he found was the recurring presence of Peggy Ashcroft impersonating a horrid little Chinese man.

A View From the Bridge at the Comedy is compelling powerful theatre even if it never reaches the status of true tragedy, sums up Shuman, Standard. Play is a must though for those wanting a red-blooded play that hits you mercilessly in the emotional solar plexus, he concluded. Anthony Quayle in the lead role was highly praised in the club production. But REM, Stage, panned play because main character, he felt, was such a limited and boring character.

***** Nov 7 1956 PLAYGOERS GUIDE chart of CRITICAL DIGEST 139 E. 47, NYC--EL 5-6694 *****

This weekly chart of CRITICAL DIGEST, the weekly NYC theatre newsletter, presents up-to-minute data on current business and critical reception of all current Broadway and Off-Broadway shows. Subscribers to CRITICAL DIGEST may write or phone for any other specific data or for later reviews.

**C-- Critics' figures refer to percentage of PRO notices filed by NYC daily drama critics. PRO means show was recommended as entertaining and/or stimulating, not if critic predicted if show would be a hit.

"B"-- Business'figures refer to percentage and gross ticket sales of last week and preceding weeks. "% figures refer to last week's attendance. "Cap" figures refer to capacity of house. Figures that follow are gross estimates of variety for last week and preceding weeks. All figures are in thousands of dollars. Thus--"Cap $41-$14 $14" means that capacity of house is $41,000, last weeks gross sales $14, preceding week $16,000, etc.
